cent. In turn, SCBs charge interest to DCCBs at rates ranging between 3 per cent and 7 per cent. Actual in terest rate is relaed to the ratio of bor rowing from NABARD to outstanding at DOCB level against PACs. The DOCBs lend to PAC aft 9 per cent. The DOCBs SCBs are required to involve their costly resources on agricultural lending under the discipline of 'minimum involvement' before drawing) on the limits sanctioned by NABARD. The margin which the SCBs and DOCBs get on their borrow ings from NABARD for SAO serves to offset the higher cost incurred by them in raising deposits which aire utilised for SAO lending under the 'mnimum invol vement' discipline prescribed by NABARD.

Under the Scheme of Handloom finance, SCBs/DCCBs are charged interest at 9.5 per cent by NABARD and they are expected to charge the same rate of interest to Primary Weavers Cooperative Societies 'PWCS). State Governments are proivindg interest subsidy at the sate of 3 per cent to State/Central capperative Banks and this serves as arargin to meet their operational/tranasportation cost. The discipline of 'min&mtm$f*oive-ment' which is in operation for SAO borrowing from NABARD is not applicable for weavers' finance. The position of PACS and that of PWCS is not comparable. While PACS do on-lending, the PWCS ine the borrowings to procure raw material and provide wages to its members. In view of above position, the interest rate of refinance for PWCS and PACS cannot be compared/related.
